

Neonatology

Senior Medical Officer

Permanent full time or part time positions available

Total remuneration up to $362,864 p.a.

The Neonatal Unit health care team at Sunshine Coast University Hospital (SCUH) will provide acute inpatient and outpatient neonatal care utilising family centred practice. This is achieved through close collaboration between staff and parents and is supported by the architectural design of the nursery which facilitates individualised care and high levels of parental involvement.

An exciting opportunity exists for a Senior Medical Officer (Neonatology) to join the Neonatology Service upon the opening of the SCUH. We are seeking a Senior Medical Officer with extensive clinical experience and specialised skills in Neonatology to assist in providing a service which ensures timely and quality care, in the most appropriate setting.

SCHHS provides a work environment that is safe, satisfying and flexible and promotes a health balance between work and personal life. Your skills can help us shape the future of healthcare in the Sunshine Coast region.

SCHHS offers employees:

- Competitive salary and packaging advantages
- Generous superannuation scheme
- Increased learning and development opportunities
- Career progression opportunities
- Team approach to healthcare delivery
- Strong leadership and strategic direction
- Positive workplace culture

Closing date: 11-OCT-2016

Applicants must apply online

Job Ad Reference QLD/SC221116

schealthjobs.com

Sunshine Coast
Hospital and Health Service

Exceptional people. Exceptional healthcare.

Queensland
Government